

Stephanos Almaliotis (1910-1987), Portrait of Eleftherios Venizelos, oil on canvas, 67X47 cm. (Hellenic Parliament Art Collection, inv. n. 22)

Lithograph by S. Christidis inspired by the murder attempt against E. Venizelos in June 1933

The day following the outbreak of the military coup organized by Venizelist officers against the restoration of the Monarchy extremist antivenizelists demonstrate in the center of Athens, March 2, 1935

After the failed failure of the coup, Eleftherios Venizelos leaves Chania. Emm. Mountakis, Mayor of Chania, and Man. Voloudakis, deputy of the Liberal Party, are standing next to him. Warship Greek battle cruiser “Averof” March 12, 1935

The trial of military officers that participated in the coup d'état of March, 1923, at the Court Martial in Athens. Captain Ioannis Tsigante- Sboronos (1897-1943), standing in the photo, was considered to be a key-role person of the attempted coup in Athens. After the failed coup of 1935, most of the officers were purged from the Armed Forces (Benaki Museum Historical Archives–Archive of Eleftherios Venizelos, n.1237)

Venizelos and his wife Elena, after leaving the city of Chania they resort to the Dodecanese, from where they subsequently leave for Italy

Shortly before his death during a walk in Paris

Grand Cross of the Order of Prince Danilo I of Montenegro awarded to Eleftherios Venizelos by the Government of Montenegro

Badge Medal of Honor awarded to Eleftherios Venizelos by the Government of Japan

Star of the Imperial Order of St. Alexander Nevsky awarded to Eleftherios Venizelos by the Russian Government

Badge of the Order of the Star of Romania (Der Ordens-Stern) awarded to Eleftherios Venizelos by the Romanian Government